He should also have a definite knowledge of the needs of the market be patronizes, a business judgment and tact to take advantage of the situations and to profit by them, and there should be a combined effort on the part of each and every dairyman to promote dairy knowledge, making dairy instruction free, available and obtainable to all. Besides this there should be a general feeling of neverlet-go, all-push-together, to drive out and crush out all boyus and spurious imitations of dairy products. All must also watch for and meet on equal grounds this close competition that has found out the dairyman as well as the manufacturer. Experiment stations may point out remedies but it is for individal darrymen to put them to the test and practice. The breed of cow the dairyman will keep he must decide for himself, but all are now agreed that she must be of the dairy type. Gov. Hoard's you has come to be accepted by the world, and this type, whether Jersey, Holstein, Guernsey or scrub, is everywhere recognizable. By general consent dairymen have let go the combinaion cow. I have heard more about the pecial dairy cow in the past year than n the ten preceding. The beefy, blocky low of elephantine proportions is doomed for the dairy. The profits of earrying five hundred pounds of extra cel on a cow for six or eight years to ell at last for a cent per pound has lost its charm. The dairyman is finding out that the ration that make one pound of beefy steer can readily be changed to nake one pound of butter or two pounds of full creamed cheese. I admit that I nave seen milk in copious measure frawn from the beef form, but the beef influence gains the mastery and the cow goes dry seven months in the year.

Let the feed be what it may, however, nat alone can not control the quality of the milk. The eow has an individuallow of her own, a born milking habit and the greater number of grandams possessing the milking traits the greater probability there is that this cow will possess like qualities.
